

About MetroEast Community Media

Residents of the East Metro area know their community best. That's why at MetroEast Community Media, our parent organization, it's in their hands to create what goes on the air.

MetroEast is a non-profit community television organization that allows staff and hundreds of volunteers to produce and cablecast Public Access, Educational, and Governmental (PEG) programming.

MetroEast Community Media helps everyday people make television programs. We offer media workshops and equipment, plus studio and video editing space. We show your programs and others from our community on eight (Comcast Cable & Frontier) channels. Visit us and get involved. Let your voice be heard, and see why we are community television and beyond.
